

SPACES OF, AND FOR HISTORICAL GEOGRAPHY

Institute of Geography, University of Edinburgh,
Thursday 6th November, 10.00am-5.00pm

A day symposium of historical geography presentations for academic staff, postdoctoral researchers and postgraduate students, supported by the Arts and Humanities Research Council.

BOOKS AND TEXTUAL SPACES

10.30-11.05 Innes Keighren (University of Edinburgh)
'Humboldt's disciples or a capitalist vanguard? The written accounts of nineteenth-century British travellers to South America'

11.05-11.40 Louise Henderson (Royal Holloway, University of London)
'Print spaces and the literature of travel: John Murray and the making of Missionary Travels'

LANDSCAPES AND SENSUAL SPACES

12.00-12.40 Veronica Della Dora (University of Bristol)
'Gazes from a frontier tower: the intertwining biographies of a war heroine and a holy mountain'

1.45-2.20 Hayden Lorimer (University of Glasgow)
'A life in nature's surfaces and beauty's secrets'

MUSEUMS AS SPACES OF PRACTICE

3.15-3.50 Merle Patchett (University of Glasgow)
'Putting animals on display: geographies of taxidermy practice'

3.50-4.25 Geoff Swinney (University of Edinburgh)
'What do we know about what we know?: the museum register as museum object'

Chris Philo (University of Glasgow) Discussant's Remarks

This symposium is free to attend.
Lunch and refreshments will be served.
To register please e-mail Merle Patchett at:
Merle.Patchett@ges.gla.ac.uk